

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A fluid vaporizing device such as an aerosol generator having a tubular heater in the form of thin film of resistance heating material lining a fluid passage and method for forming the tubular heater within the fluid passage. The tubular heater can be heated to volatilize a fluid within the passage. The fluid vaporizing device can be used for the generation of aerosols containing medicated material.